What advice would you offer to current or prospective MAPW students?

Trail your obsessions. Slow down if you need to. Think of the program as a community. Use your time in the program to start putting your CV together so you won't have to build it from scratch later. If you're a creative writer, don't write just to satisfy a given assignment—well, you might have to do that every once in a while, but don't make it your general approach. Try not to look at the concentrations—creative, comp/rhet, applied—as mutually exclusive. Seek publication. Actively participate in various literary communities—local, regional, national, even global. If you're planning to teach afterward, at any level, go heavy on the comp/rhet, develop your teaching philosophy, and get some teaching experience if you can.
